Art Unit: 2154

Non-Art Rejections:

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The following language is vague and indefinite:

In claim 1, line 3, the term "whereby" renders the claims indefinite because it is not clear whether the limitations following the phrase are part of the claimed invention. See MPEP § 2173.05(d). It is suggested that "whereby" be changed to more definitive term such as "wherein".

The use of "whereby" can also be found in claims 2, 3, 16, 24, and 26.

Art Rejections:

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2154

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1, 3-13 and 15-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Komar, U.S. pat. Appl. Pub. No. 2002/0184647, in view of Strauss et al, U.S. pat. No. 5,790,173.

Per claims 1 and 4, Komar discloses a method for providing media content contemporaneously with the broadcast programming comprising:

- a) establishing a media broadcast database wherein the media content is identified from a plurality of broadcast channels (see Komar in page 1, par. 11);
- b) receiving a request for the media content contemporaneous with its broadcast, the request comprising a channel field (see page 2, par. 15);
- c) generating a timestamp value associated with the time the request was received (page 2, par. 16);
- d) querying the broadcast database using the channel field and the timestamp value to identify the content (page 2, par. 16-17);

Art Unit: 2154

e) returning the query results to a destination associated with the requestor (page 2, par. 18 and figure 4, step 460).

Komar does not explicitly teach that the media content request contains a requestor identity. The use of one or more user identities (e.g., source address, user ID, password, etc.) to identify the user/requester is common and well known in the art as shown by Strauss (see Strauss in col 20, lines 26-52).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to recognize the use of such user identity in Komar because it would have enabled the system to verify authorized users/requestor for a particular service request.

Per claim 3, an official notice is taken that the use of queue for storing pending requests is well known in the art. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to utilize a conventional queue in Komar because it would have enabled the server to accepting multiple requests at the same time.

Per claims 5-10 and 15, it is noted that Komar's teachings are applicable to all conventional broadcast networks and/or analog/digital broadcast contents.

Per claim 11, it is noted that the ordered video/movie program can be viewed/recorded at specific time (i.e., scheduled delivery) (see Komar in page 7, par. 77-80).

Per claims 12-13, Komar also teaches providing the query results with advertisement that is associated with particular program channel (see Komar in page 3, par. 25).

Per claims 16-27, Strauss teaches providing an enhanced telephone system including an IVR system to enable users ordering program contents on demand by using DTMF input on a conventional telephone (see Strauss at the summary).

5. Claims 14 and 27-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Komar, and Strauss, and further in view of Eldering et al, U.S. pat. Appl. Pub. No. 2003/0149975.

The combined teachings of Komar and Strauss set forth in item 4 above are still applied. Neither Komar nor Strauss teach providing user targeted ads based upon user's demographic data. Such use of targeted ads is well known in the art as shown in Eldering (see Eldering in page 2, par. 52).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilize targeted ads in Komar, i.e., ads provided according to users' demographics because it would have enabled the system to provide more effective ads to the users (see Eldering in page 2, par. 50).

6. Claim 2 is not rejected on art.
